Planning and managing studies correctly

GABA organized workshop in Prague

GABA, the oral care specialist, is devoted to support dental experts in their professional development and to connect them with each other. A workshop in cooperation with the EADPH (European Association for Dental Public Health) in the Czech capital Prague was mainly targeted at promoting young researchers. „Research management at dental schools“ was the title of the workshop with focus on planning and management of research projects. Highly skilled trainers showed to 15 participants from 7 countries how to write protocols correctly in form and content, and how to summarize and present scientific results. Furthermore, the young experts were given information concerning the different stages of developing and publishing a study. Advice for the effective transfer of research-related skills and competencies completed the workshop's content.

The workshop was held under the auspices of the Dean of the 1st Faculty of Medicine, Charles University in Prague Prof. Tomas Zima, MD, DrSci.Med, MBA.

„This was already the fourth workshop dealing with preparation and management of studies and their publication“, explained Dr Barbara Egger from the Scientific Affairs department.

„GABA has been sponsoring this kind of event since 2008, and we plan to continue with it“.
